

Trib takes 1st-place awards

The Tribune-Herald won four first-place awards and the sweepstakes award in the annual North and East Texas Press Association contest.

The awards were announced at the association's meeting in Waco Saturday.

The Tribune-Herald's awards were for a feature story written by former staff writer Frank May about McLennan County District Attorney Vic Fezell; editorials written by John Young; the sports section; and community service.

Also, Tribune-Herald staff photographer Rod Aydelotte won third place for news photography.

Young won both second and fourth place in column writing and staff writer Darrell Dunn won fourth in news reporting.

The Tribune-Herald competed against newspapers with more than 10,000 circulation.

The first-place winners were:

News story, Texarkana Gazette
Community service, Waco Tribune-Herald

Sports, Waco Tribune-Herald
Local column, Texarkana Gazette
General excellence, Tyler Morning Telegraph

Local editorial, Waco Tribune-Herald
Feature story, Waco Tribune-Herald
News photo, Piano Daily Star-Courier